Polarization controller for radiation in warm blackbody plasma: application to the solar corona. In warm blackbody plasmas, the polarization mode corresponding to the particle moving away from the source is much less than the backward propagating mode. We have used the scattering model of Kavanagh and Armstrong [Proc. R. Soc. Under these conditions the scattering on the receiver may be interpreted in terms of a no-reradiation condition. The results are compared with the corresponding conditions in cold plasmas, and their possible relevance to the solar corona is discussed.Q: How do I normalize a jsonb using PostgreSQL?
